

Content Outline

Bridget Halliday

Email: bahalliday@wustl.edu

Phone: 630.210.4614

Project Title: Perfume

I want to build a multipage microsite focusing on perfume. Perfumes have been used since ancient times and are regarded by some as a complex form of art. I'd like this microsite to simplify various aspects of perfume so people can better appreciate it. The design of the webpage to be reminiscent of perfume – which is pretty open. Overall, I would like typefaces, colors, etc. to be sophisticated.

Homepage:

Use the homepage to give a brief overview of perfume and what readers will see in the next few pages.

Brief History:

Please highlight some locations and developments of perfume throughout history.

Aromatic Sources:

Please list and briefly describe the different sources used to create the scents in perfumes. Be sure to include both natural sources (plants, animals, etc) and synthetic sources.

Composition:

In this section, I'd like to see a brief description of the perfumer and what their role is. Also focus on the basic framework of creating perfume (you'll see this section on the Wikipedia page provided below, under the "Composing Perfumes" section).

Describing Perfume:

Highlight some terminology used when describing the scent of a perfume. It may be helpful to provide an example(s) of a perfume and how it would be described.

Sources: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Perfume>